 We learn this mitzvah from Parshas Mishpatim: (שמות כא:יח)

וְכִי יִרְיֹבֵן אֲנָשִׁים וְהִכָּה
אִישׁ אֶת רֵעֵהוּ

Today's mitzvah is a review of one we learned before! If a person makes someone else get hurt, he needs to pay him to make up for what he did. (In fact, we learn that he has to pay for 5 kinds of damage that he did: For the part of him that got hurt, the pain, the doctor bills, that he is missing work, and that he was embarrassed.) The halachos are called Dinei Knasos.

 The details of this mitzvah are explained in Mishnayos & Gemara:
Mesechta Bava Kama perek Ches

Rambam: Hilchos Shecheinim

PEREK ALEF

In today's Rambam, we start to learn the halachos of partners and neighbors.

In the first perek we learn that partners can decide that they want to split up and stop being partners. If they do, they split what they have if it is big enough.

PEREK BEIS

This perek speaks a lot about houses that two partners decide to split, and about making walls for separation.

PEREK GIMMEL

The Rambam talks about what happens if the wall between two properties falls! Who gets the stones, and how should they rebuild it?
